

RIAMS

RIAMS (www.riams.org) is a leading information platform delivering innovations in Regulatory Services. RIAMS was created and developed by RH Environmental Limited and its founder Robert Halford, Bsc, MSc, CMCIEH. Robert Halford is well known and respected for his passion for environmental health and through his support of the professionals who deliver global environmental health programs.

RH Environmental Limited (RHE) was incorporated in 2005 and has its head office in Wales in the United Kingdom. Along with their Australian partners Kernow Environmental Health Australia P/L (<http://www.riamsau.org/>), they provide environmental health services worldwide. RH Environmental Limited (RHE) are expert trainers and offer a vast range of environmental health training courses and regulatory subjects. RHE are recognized throughout the United Kingdom as experts in their field and many professional organizations and associations readily accept and recognize this training within their continuing professional development framework.

RHE (www.rhenvironmental.co.uk.) specializes in supporting professionals to deliver better environmental health outcomes and solutions Best aptly put...professionals, delivering professional training for professionals! This is done by combining new software tools and knowledge management services that best keep environmental health professionals current with knowledge, information and best practices emerging in environmental health.

RIAMS is technically very advanced yet is a simple concept. It delivers regularly updated procedures, documents, guidance and many other knowledge based resources. RIAMS can be adapted by the end user to meet local information needs, which is most unique. This simplistic approach has helped thousands of environmental health professionals deliver better and more consistent services globally.

The RIAMS vision, in an inter-connected world, is designed to provide environmental health professionals with technical innovations along with the most current information available in order to make them more effective in a changing global world. This in combination with leading edge design in concert with well developed support tools further helps to develop and foster the environmental health knowledge base in each country and within regions.

RH Environmental Limited is very active in assessing how the digital technology revolution will transform the environmental health profession. They are engaged in many projects to introduce new tools based on the RIAMS platform and their most recent innovations are The Noise App (www.thenoiseapp.com) and Whitedocs (www.whitedocs.com).
