

World Environmental Health day 2023

“GLOBAL ENVIRONMENTAL PUBLIC HEALTH: STANDING UP TO PROTECT EVERYONE'S HEALTH EACH AND EVERY DAY”

The New Zealand Institute of Environmental Health designed a ‘spot the health hazards’ competition for members to identify examples of environmental health at work in our every day world. This fun competition received some great entries with the winner receiving a prize of a $250 donation to a registered New Zealand charity of their choice.

NZIEH also ran competitions for all NZ School children to participate in. A colouring competition for primary school children (Y0-Y6) and a ‘spot the health hazards’ competition for Intermediate and high school students (Y7-13). It was great to see some fantastic entries from our young people identifying environmental health hazards and from feedback received was a very worthwhile and educational competition.
